

Supporting the three screens

Always on, always connected

Today consumers expect complex devices to be seamlessly interconnected and available any time, any where. How do you support this converging world? You connect with ACS.

In this integrated world, device manufacturers and broadband providers all need one single, connected partner. ACS does it all – we're always on and we're always connected.

Global Solution Provider

ACS delivers a consistent business model across our 100 global facilities to support companies as they expand into new regions and countries. As a global partner, ACS combines proven best practices with our operational excellence model to deliver dependable service no matter the location or language being supported.

Providing world class contact center services is not "Rocket Science," it comes down to hiring agents that fit the specific job profile, putting them in a contact center that is culturally aligned with your brand, in-depth training on your products and access to knowledgebases and websites with the most update information.

Full Life Cycle Support

ACS supports the entire lifecycle from product sales, customer service and technical support.

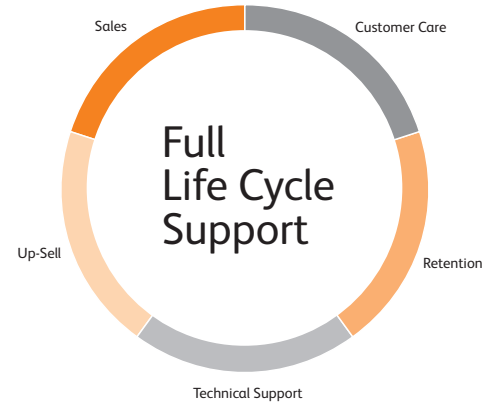

Sales – ACS offers inbound sales programs using a targeted, needs-based approach to improve customer satisfaction and increase client market share.

Customer Care – ACS provides customer care services through agent-driven and self-help avenues. Our customer care programs include post-sale follow-up and service, product inquiries, fraud and crisis management, billing questions, and customer loyalty preservation.

Retention – ACS' approach to retention and customer relationship management is simplistic, but it works. We listen. We listen to the customer, effectively solve their problem, listen some more, and ensure that they are pleased with every aspect of the interaction with your company.

Technical Support – ACS delivers technical support through highly trained agents with the use of world class processes and tools to diagnose and resolve problems on the first pass. ACS offers dispatch and dispatch avoidance services to significantly reduce cost; along with remote controlled technical support. ACS supports consumer electronics, software applications, wireless and broadband services.

Up-Sell – ACS agents earn the right to sell by resolving all of your customer's issues first. Our agents are trained in the art of selling and to recognize nuances within conversations that signal an even greater opportunity. Once your customer's issues are fully resolved, ACS agents move into needs based selling to fulfill their needs and improve the connection to your brand.
